

The Week Ahead The Methodist Church

Hi everyone, and welcome to the final Week Ahead of 2014.

As promised, it's a bit of a Christmas video-fest - and there's a ton of seasonal telly and radio, too.

From tomorrow afternoon, the communications office will be closed for the Christmas break - but don't worry, all our on-call details are listed on the right.

While many of us will be celebrating with family and friends this Christmas, please do remember in your prayers all those who have been affected by the tragic Peshawar school massacre and the attack on a cafe in Sydney, Australia.

This is the last edition of the Week Ahead until 8 January, so until then I wish you all a very happy Christmas and a wonderful New Year,

Anna

Christmas greetings from the President and Vice-President

The Revd Kenneth Howcroft and Gill Dascombe asked me to share the following greeting with you all on their behalf:

Glory be to God on high, and peace on earth descend!

As President and Vice-President, we send our greetings to Methodists whose Conference we represent, and to those in other churches and organisations to whom we represent it.

As we come to a season of grace, we are filled with gratitude for all the love we have seen in you as we have travelled around.

May God bless you.

As we celebrate our Lord coming to earth, may earth be turned to heaven in us and through us.

Don't forget to look out for their official Christmas message tomorrow, which will be online here as a press release and available here as a podcast.
